KENYON INTERNATIONAL JOINS EUROPEAN REGIONS AIRLINE ASSOCIATION (ERA)

14 March 2018 – Kenyon International Emergency Services, a global leader in disaster management, is pleased to announce that it has become a member of the European Regions Airline Association (ERA). The organization joins leading aviation companies in representing the interests of the European aviation industry.

“Kenyon recognizes the ERA as a highly respected and credible industry body that makes a real difference to the aviation community. We are very excited to be a part of the organization and its family, along with so many of our clients who are already members,” states Kenyon Vice President, Commercial Services Conor Prendergast. “We are focused on creating meaningful, useful partnerships with our clients and ERA gives us further opportunity to interact with them. Likewise, we are dedicated to sharing our experience in crisis management – specifically, the lessons Kenyon has learned over hundreds of disaster response operations, and believe we have something useful to offer the membership at large.”

The ERA is a non-profit trade association representing the European aviation industry, founded in 1980. Its strength and influence spans more than three decades, since its inception ERA has developed and grown in size and reputation to represent 49 airlines and 144 service providers including airframe and engine manufacturers, airports, suppliers and service providers from all over Europe. ERA works on behalf of its members to represent their interests before Europe’s major regulatory bodies. The association also brings members together to exchange information and learn from each other through different events and forums for members to meet. A major role for ERA is to raise the profile and importance of our members to the economic and social development of Europe.
