Kenyon Provides Planning Assistance to Air Pacific

(Houston, Texas) Kenyon International Emergency Services Inc has been selected to provide emergency response planning and consultancy services to Air Pacific, the international airline of Fiji. The multi-phase project will be undertaken by an international team of Kenyon specialists from the UK, Germany, USA and Singapore. The project leader, Mr Gavin Solomon of Kenyon described the project, "Air Pacific has made a significant investment to ensure that the airline is ready to respond in the most robust and appropriate way to the challenges of an emergency. Working closely with the airline's management at its HQ in Nadi, Kenyon will assist with drafting of emergency plans and specialist training for Air Pacific teams."

Kenyon's consultancy division regularly delivers crisis planning, training and exercise services to the world's airlines and also to other major business sectors.
